SENIOR CLASS

VOLUME NUMBER TWENTY

MISS SANDESON

to whose wise guidance and untiring assistance, we, the class of nineteen twenty-three, owe much of our success as a class. To her we humbly dedicate this issue of the "Medley" as an expression of our gratitude for the invaluable services which she has rendered to us during our Senior year.

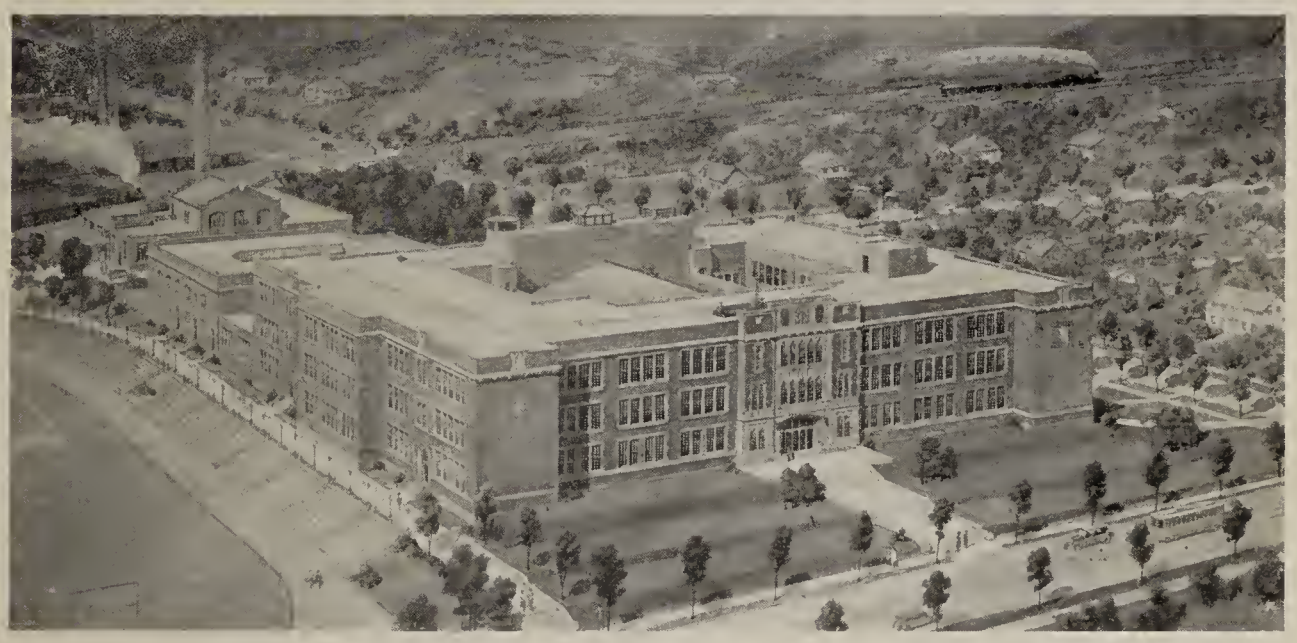
FOREWORD

If real pleasure is found within these pages, our efforts have not been in vain.

Old High School Building

To thee we pay farewell homage. Many sacred memories surround thy walls of lessons learned and battles won. Better than a marble shaft, to thy memory, are the living monuments of flesh and blood, honored and respected citizens who have received their training within thy time-honored walls.

Old High School and Annex



The New Danville High School

The success or failure of our community for the next several decades lies with thee. Within thy doors, some of the future citizens of this country will receive their early training. Their training will largely determine what type of citizens they may become.

M. Stuebe

Mr. G. P. Randle

It seems strange indeed to think of him only as our superintendent. We rather regard him as a guide, counsellor, and friend.

A guide with the watchword "Play up, play up, and play the game."

A counsellor whose help is that of a father.

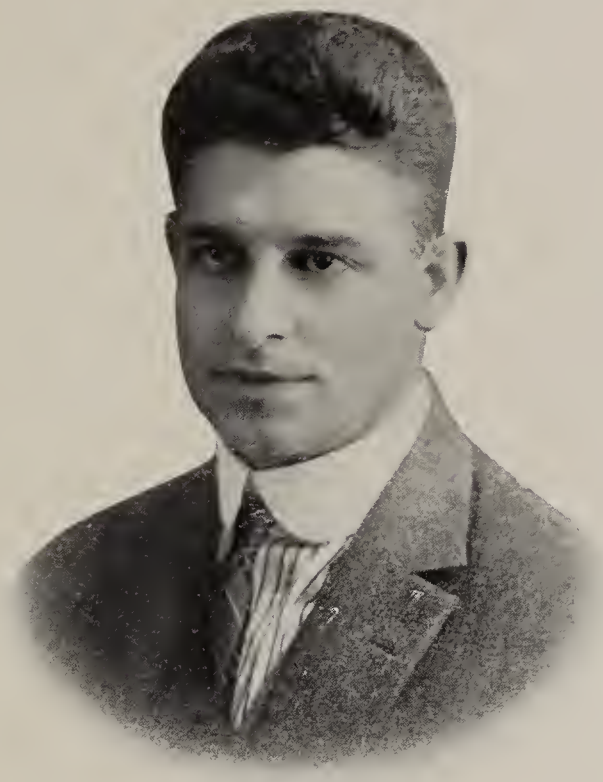
Many more words might be spoken in praise of this man but it can all be summed up in that one word that means so much—A Friend.

Mr. G. C. Vance

We seldom see him within our doors but we know he is interested in us just the same. Most of us have only been acquainted with him for a short time but he has already acquitted himself with honor and we are proud of our assistant superintendent.

Mr. W. C. Baer, Principal

Eulogies might be written of this man and still not do full justice to the subject. As our enrollment has advanced by leaps and bounds during the last few years, he has striven with all his might to preserve our two most cherished possessions, our school honor, and the "never say die" spirit. He is putting his time and energy into one of the best of investments—young people. May he never regret his investment.



Mr. Wakeley

Whenever Danville High is in a contest, there you will find this man cheering the team on to victory. He can understand our qualms and fears because he once trod these floors as a student.

Senior Class History

It has been said that a human life is like a book, opened by the Spirit of Life and closed by the Spirit of Death. The chapters of that book are marked by the milestones of that life—the years which stand out from the rest as prominent and worthy of notice.

We, the Seniors of the class of 1923, have passed another great milestone of our lives; we are ready to close another chapter of our books—to close, but not forget. But let us pause for a moment to consider what this chapter contains before we turn to the new life.

In the fall of 1919 there entered the Danville High School another band of freshies, quite as green and unsophisticated as their predecessors. But green things advance rapidly, and the newcomers passed safely through the trials of algebra, only to find themselves surrounded by such a muddle of geometry as to make them reel in bewilderment.

The last two years have proven all too short, but from those freshmen who entered in 1919 have come representatives in athletics, debating, oratory, dramatic art and scholarship who have left an indelible imprint upon the records of old D. H. S.

And so we close this chapter of our lives—not with regret and grief, but with a feeling of pride and satisfaction. We have fought the good fight. We have lived our motto, "Success through Service."

How time flies! To the members of our class of 1924 it hardly seems three years since we entered the traditioned walls of Danville High School to gain knowledge. Even when we were freshmen, we had many hopes and ambitions, a great many of which we have attained in our present junior year. Our social activities this year have, indeed, been successful. Our members have been well represented in all branches of literary activities. The athletics of the school have been made better by the Class of 1924. The success of this year we hope will be ever greater during our senior year.

Sophomore Class History

I think that the Class of 1925 is the best Sophomore Class that D. H. S. has ever had. We are many as to numbers and excellent as to quality. Our classmen are active in all organizations and athletics.

Our election demonstrated that we are alive and that we are full of the school spirit. The following officers were elected: President, Emmett Newman; Vice-President, Alice Tarpening; Secretary, Winifred Hendricks; Treasurer, Seth Jewell; Chairman of Social Committee, Virginia Phillips; Adviser, Mr. Rayl.

Our parties were perfectly grand—ask anybody who was there.

We are eagerly looking forward to the next two years and hope that Success will crown our efforts as she has this year.

The "D" Association

The "D" Association of Danville High School is an organization composed of all men who have won letters in the different branches of Athletics. Its purpose is to foster clean competition and to encourage more men to participate in athletics. One of the annual affairs of this association is the "D" banquet.

This is the only club of the school which limits its membership to athletes and naturally contains the school's best representatives.

Coach Thompson

With our "big little" coach, Mr. Thompson, came a new era in athletics. His first appearance won the respect and admiration of every athlete in the school and since that time this has been increased many times.

Our prospects, at the time of his arrival, had a very dark cloud hanging over them, but our little meteor turned the cloud and brought out the bright side.

In the two years Mr. Thompson has been coach, he has developed some of the best teams that ever represented the Maroon and White. From the first call for football until the last spiked shoe leaves the track in the spring, he puts forth his greatest efforts to present a clean, hard fighting team that will win. While he has our best wishes for a successful future, it is hoped that he will sound the first call for football next fall. His teams always are "The Danville Bears."

Fifty men answered the call for footba'l candidates, September 5, 1922. Nine of these were varsity men from 1921. The squad faced the hardest schedule ever attempted by a Danville team, and came through with flying colors.

Ten games were played, six of which were won, three lost and one tied. The scores of the three games lost were 7-6, 3-0, 9-7. Nine points were the most scored on Danville by any team.

The 1922 team was at its best on defense, having only 4 touchdowns scored on it in the ten games played.

The other features contributing to its success were the fierce tackling by nearly every member, and their alertness (Danville recovered, not only her own fumbles, but nearly all of her opponents).

The first game of the season started with five regulars out on account of injuries. These all returned for the Springfield game, however, and the team for the first time proved its real worth. It continued to improve until the last game when, at full strength, it defeated Bowen High of Chicago, 3 years champions in their class.

The season as a whole was one of the most interesting, as well as successful, ever enjoyed by a Danville team and did much for D. H. S. athletic tradition.

Captain Hall

Captain Melvin Hall's ability of natural leadership, combined with his three years' experience, made him an ideal captain. He set an example to his teammates by playing his position faultlessly. When ground was needed to make the downs, Mel was called to the backfield and consistently made the ground needed. He was an asset to the team in every way and he will be missed greatly next fall.

VARSITY MEN

Melvin Hall (Capt.), Archie Johnson (Capt.-elect), Joe Morrissey, Raymond Swick, Herman Miethe, Leroy Linne, Donald Phillips, Stewart Winthers, Lester Son, John Raushenberger, Glenn Tilton, George Harper, Donald Sink, James Arnholt, Charles Forshier, Fred Collignon, Russell Tilton, Glenn Detweiler, Welton McIntosh.

SIDELL AT DANVILLE

This being the first game there was a fair sized crowd anxious to see the team in action. Nothing but straight football was used by Danville, and by using it they swamped Sidell by a score of 73-0. Sidell fought hard and clean the entire game but were unable to get the ball past their own 40 yard line.

7—DANVILLE AT GEORGETOWN—7

A very large crowd and the band accompanied the team to Georgetown to see the battle. The day was very warm and being so early in the season, each team was handicapped in showing their stuff. When the smoke cleared from the field, Georgetown had, for the second time in two years, tied Danville.

It was unfortunate that the two teams could not meet later in the season when they were both at their best.

7—HOOPESTON AT DANVILLE—12

A drizzling rain through the whole game slowed things up and made the plays very uncertain for each team. Danville played their poorest game of the season against Hoopeston.

Due to injuries in the Georgetown game it became necessary to develop a new quarterback. This broke up the co-ordination of the team very much. The more powerful Danville team would carry the ball to the shadow of Hoopeston's goal repeatedly, only to lose the ball by poor team work. However, they gained many more yards than did Hoopeston and the close score does not show the relative strength of the two teams.

Glen Tilton ran through the entire Hoopeston team for 40 yards to their one yard line, proving himself a broken field runner of no ordinary ability.

0—SPRINGFIELD AT DANVILLE—24

The boys came back after the Hoopeston game and looked like a different team. It was rumored that Springfield had a very heavy team, and the rumor proved to be true. The boys were all keyed up for this game which was shown by their alertness from the first to the last whistle. Danville got the jump on the first kickoff and the playing was in Springfield territory during almost the entire game.

Carnes played a wonderful game, making many gains and doing all the kicking and passing for the visitors. Petefish also played exceptionally well, he was easily one of the best defensive linemen met by Danville during the season.

Meithe showed in this game that he could star against any opposition.

Captain Hall could be relied upon any time during the game to gain ground or break up the opponents plays.

It was on the first kickoff that McIntosh tackled Carnes so fiercely that he fumbled, Hall recovering the ball on the twenty yard line, paving the way for Meithe's touchdown in the first two minutes of play. The score remained 6-0 until the third quarter when Carnes' punt was blocked on Springfield's twenty yard line and McIntosh recovered the ball and scored the second touchdown. Danville made one more touchdown in the third and another in the fourth quarter, making the score 24-0.

In the final period many substitutes were used. These continued to gain ground on the much battered Springfield team.

6—DANVILLE AT KANKAKEE—7

Kankakee was one of the few teams who got the big end of the scores, this one being 7-6.

Their touchdown came in the first five minutes when Taylor carried the ball around our left end after a fake through the line. Goal was then kicked making the score 7-0.

Our score came in the second quarter, but the kick after the touchdown failed. This making the score 7-6.

Danville had the ball within the shadow of Kankakee's goal during the rest of the game, but failed to score.

Sink played a remarkable game at end, being consistent in both offense and defense. Son, playing quarter back, handled the team in fine shape.

Line plunging was one of the features of the game. Meithe's speed and alertness kept Danville from being scored on several times, when Taylor of Kankakee broke loose.

3—URBANA AT DANVILLE—0

Urbana gave us our worst beating of the season, when Lady Luck turned a cold shoulder upon us and fondled Urbana in her arms. The two teams were very evenly matched and it was just the breaks which are bound to come in every game that decided the argument.

The contest was very stubbornly fought, the ball only once being within scoring distance, when Danville carried it to Urbana's fifteen yard line. Here Urbana braced and held. It was a battle between the lines and they were so effective in defense that the back fields had little opportunity to show their real caliber.

The only score came in the third quarter. Urbana on their own thirty-five yard line was forced to punt. Danville was penalized fifteen yards for holding and the ball given to Urbana for first down. They failed to gain their ground and were forced to punt again. For the second time and for the same thing we were again penalized, giving the ball to Urbana on our own thirty-two yard line, there Urbana being unable to gain but five yards. Sperry made a beautiful place kick and the game ended with the score 3-0, Urbana having the big end.

13—DANVILLE AT DECATUR—3

The battle between Decatur and Danville was one of the features of Armistice Day celebration. This game was played in the rain on a wet field, causing several fumbles, but most of them were made by Decatur. The fighting spirit of our opponents was very noticeable and their war cry was apparently "Beat Danville."

Danville played a defensive game the first half and punting featured it. The second half started with a rush, each team struggling for any opening that its opponent might leave. Then the break came when Decatur succeeded in getting the ball on Danville's thirty yard line and a pass carried it five yards more. Then Lanum dropped back and made a drop kick, making the score 3-0 in Decatur's favor. It was then that things started to happen. Hall ran the kickoff back to the forty yard line and later Decatur intercepted a pass on their twenty yard line. Decatur then punted and Miethe ran it back to their thirty yard line. Decatur held and Morrissey missed a place kick. Decatur again punted out of danger. A series of line plunges by Hall, Miethe and Harper netted from three to eighteen yards each, placing the ball on Decatur's ten yard line, the quarter ending here. At the beginning of the next quarter Hall carried the ball in two plunges for a touchdown, Morrissey missing the kick, making the score 6-3. After the kickoff the teams fought much in the middle of the field. Decatur was apparently weakening, and after Collignon blocked one of their punts and Hall ran it back to their twenty yard line, it was evident. Four plays through the line carried the ball to the goal and Tilton kicked making the score 13-3.

From then on the ball was in Decatur territory and the game ended with the ball on their forty-five yard line.

7—DANVILLE AT JOLIET—9

This game was more exciting than any other of the season. The teams were very evenly matched and put up a great battle. The first quarter neither team had the advantage and each was looking for a weak spot. In the latter part of the second quarter, Tilton punted from the middle of the field and the ball went out of bounds on Joliet's one yard line. Joliet's punt was blocked and the ball recovered in back of the goal line by Collignon. Morrissey kicked goal. A few minutes later the half ended with a score of 7-0 in Danville's favor.

The second half Joliet came back strong and played the boys off their feet. They carried the ball from the kickoff back to the fifty yard line; then in five consecutive line plunges they had the ball across the goal line, but they failed to annex another point by kicking goal. The game then, up until the last quarter, went on with neither team being able to get within scoring distance. By hard playing in the latter part, Joliet managed to get the ball to our twenty-five yard line where a kick was made that just did skin over, making the score 9-7. Our boys then came back strong and by hard fighting and playing got the ball to Joliet's twenty yard line. Here Joliet held and Morrissey was forced to try for a goal from field. The drop kick was blocked and Joliet got the ball; they were forced to punt and the game ended a few seconds later.

The treatment the team received was fine, in fact the best any Danville team ever received. Everything was done that would make the visit a pleasant one.

3—OAKWOOD AT DANVILLE—51

This game was very much one sided and Oakwood was never dangerous. They did, however, manage to get the ball close enough to drop kick and saved themselves from a shut-out. Captain Hall, Les Son and McIntosh were all out of the game on account of injuries, except for these three men, every man that was out for football played and helped put across a 51-3 score.

0—BOWEN AT DANVILLE—6

The Champions of Class B of Chicago met some tough competition when they faced "Thompson's Bears" for their final game of the season.

This team had lost but one game during the entire season, this being to Rockford by a 6-0 score. They also had four men picked on the "All Chicago" team. Then they out-weighed the boys by an average of eight pounds. In spite of all this the squad fought its way to a 6-0 victory.

This game was a battle between the two lines. The back fields were both handicapped on account of the wet field. At the end of the half it started to rain and did not stop until the game was over. This caused much fumbling and also slowed up the men on each team.

The two teams were very evenly matched and the ball was see-sawed back and forth in the middle of the field, neither team getting it within scoring distance until the third quarter.

The only touchdown started when a pass from Miethe to Sink was completed for fifteen yards. Then by a series of line plunges the ball was brought to the forty yard line. Here a pass, Miethe to Swick, was completed for twelve yards and a few minutes later another, Hall to Son, netted twelve more. Captain Hall was then brought back and by a series of line plunges brought the ball to the two yard line. Then the quarter ended, but when the whistle blew for the beginning of the final quarter, Hall carried the ball over for the lone touchdown. Tilton missed goal and the score was 6-0 in Danville's favor. The rest of the game then went on as it had before, neither team being able to bring the ball within scoring distance.

Hall and Miethe made most of the ground gained through line plunging. Morrissey had his eye on the "old agate" and got off some fine punts. Son, Miethe and Swick also contributed to the ground gained, by completing a number of passes.

Go Team Go

The basketball team kept the pace set by the football squad by fighting their way to success. In spite of the fact that a "jinx" trailed along with the squad, it could not keep the boys on the bottom. Its first appearance was made when a week before the season opened "Les" Son was found to be ineligible. Then after the Christmas vacation he smiled on us again by causing Horace Newman to have to give up basketball on account of sickness. Robert Carson was the next victim to be blessed. Then it struck another blow in February when Theodore Hudson became ineligible on account of the eight semester ruling. All through the season its appearance was noticeable and then it made its last strike in the District tournament. After the boys had fought through their first game Herman Miethe was taken ill and was unable to play in the second game which was with Hoopeston.

The season ended with the team winning eleven out of fifteen games played. Had the team lost every game but that one played on home-coming the season would have been a success. The boys defeated Urbana who were considered to have the best team they had had for several years. Then the team beat Decatur, for the first time any basketball team from Danville had ever got the big end of the score from them, the season was absolutely a success without saying more.

Raymond Swick

Raymond Swick's attitude and aggressive spirit made him a successful captain. He was aggressive in both offense and defense, and not only this, but he had everything that a basket-ball player requires. He was as fast as any player that ever played for the Maroon and White, his consistent free throwing made him a valuable player. The loss of Swick's consistent playing will be felt next year.

INTER-CLASS BASKETBALL

On January 23, 24 and 25 the class basketball tournament was held. The Seniors were the favorites from the beginning and the unexpected did not happen, so they stepped right out and picked the flower of championship with ease.

The Senior team, as a whole, was good, with three letter men in Son, Funk, Christy, Hall, an all-star footballer, and Pentecost, an experienced man at the other guard, balanced the team in fine shape. Then, as the old saying goes, a team is no better than its substitutes. They had Raushenberger, Phillips and Irwin. They showed up fine and when substituted, took their positions as veterans.

Track Prospects

Thirty men answered the last call for track that was made April 3rd. Some of the boys, however, had been in training since last October when they started to get limbered up for the Cross Country run. Then through February and March all of the letter men brushed up for the meet at Northwestern and since that time the entire squad has been working out.

The prospects are now the brightest they have ever been in the history of the school. The letter men are doing better than ever before and the newcomers are making a splendid showing.

The team is well balanced and should make a good showing in the meets that are to come. The mid-season form that they are showing now, and considering the further improvements that will be made, several records should be broken.

The only setback so far is the injury to Captain Van Voorhis who has an infection in one foot which will probably keep him out of the first few meets.

Abe Van Voorhis | Chester Towers | Donald McLeod | Frank Stellner

The cross country team made their first debut in the Y. M. C. A. five mile road race and made a very favorable showing.

The boys entered the contest with the odds against them, but in spite of this McLeod finished first and Stellner second. The race was very evenly run until the last two hundred yards. At this distance Crawford of the Y. M. C. A., McLeod and Stellner were bunched. Things then changed and it was just a question of who should be first, McLeod or Stellner and it was a brilliant finish.

Abe Van Voorhis

Captain Abe Van Voorhis is one of the best sprinters that ever competed for Danville High School. He is very consistent and can be depended upon to do very well in every meet. His ambition and untiring energy is an inspiration to the entire squad. Abe is a veteran of three years experience and is expected to win many points during this season.

DUAL MEET AT URBANA

The Bears started the season in high by gathering 80 points in the meet while Urbana could only accumulate 42.

Baldwin and Whitlock were the outstanding stars and both being new men shows the advance the boys are making under Mr. Thompson's supervision.

The swimmers also made a fine showing. Newman and the Jewell brothers won all the points made by Danville, but Urbana got the same number. The relay was the deciding factor in the swim and Urbana won.

Swimming

The first swimmers to represent the Maroon and White were Jewell and Newman at the meet at Northwestern. They did not win any points, but won in their heats and made a fine showing.

The second time any swimmers represented the school was at Urbana where they tied for honors but were beaten in the relay, resulting in Urbana winning.

With such a start swimming should become one of the major sports in the school.

EVEN WITH THE AID OF MANY OTHER GRECIAN GODS THE WORLD COULD NOT BE SUPPORTED FOREVER WITHOUT ORGANIZATION!

Athletic Association

The Athletic Association enjoyed the best financial year ever in the history of the school. This enabled the teams to have the best equipment that could possibly be obtained. The publicity gained by various methods brought all the activities of the Association before the eyes of the public. This was one of the reasons for such a successful year.

The Rooter's Club

The Rooter's Club is an organization composed of boys who, for various reasons, are unable to take an active part in athletics. Its success was due to Walter Meyers, one of the school's cheer leaders, and certainly the members, themselves, who gave much valuable time in arousing enthusiasm about town on evenings before football games. They were present at all athletic contests and always kept up the fighting morale of the team.

Girls' Student Club

The enrollment of the Girls' Student Club this year has passed the five hundred mark. We have all enjoyed the Hallowe'en party, the Twenty Years Hence party, the Christmas banquet, the annual Kid party, the Christmas Tree for the children of Danville, and the spring picnic. We hope to send several delegates to the Dewey Lake Conference. Everyone enjoyed the Spring entertainment called "The Arabian Nights."

—Helen Werner.

Girls' Glee Club

Under the direction of Miss Ruth Guy, the Girls' Glee Club—composed of twenty high school girls—has shown much interest, and advanced rapidly this past year.

Their first appearance was at the homecoming program in the high school assembly on December 22. They have assisted in other school programs; they have helped other organizations of the city; and they comprised the chorus for the "Arabian Nights" entertainment.

The girls were intensely interested and worked hard for the District Tournament which took place.

—Elizabeth Roberts.

D. H. S. Science Club

The Science Club is a very important factor in the student activities of D. H. S. It is a club that concerns everything that comes through the name of science. It is a hard matter for any student, who loves science, to resist being a member of this organization.

The chief functions of this club are—Holding meetings on every other Thursday afternoon at 3:45. At these meetings many interesting talks and discussions on subjects mostly concerning science includes the program. On weeks in which no meetings are held, a field trip is usually planned, if convenient to all members. These trips are taken to shops, factories and places where equipments have resulted and work is carried on through the name of science.

It is very easy for any active member of this organization, who goes on all field trips and attends all meetings, to have their knowledge of science increased.

—Abe Van Voorhis.

The Dramatic Club

This club was organized in the fall of 1922. Scholarship and dramatic ability were the qualifications for membership.

Through the splendid work and co-operation of the members and advisor, Mr. Barton, the "D. H. S. Players" have had a successful year. The spring play "The New Co-ed," given in the Washington auditorium was a great success. So the club has many hopes and ambitions for next year.

—Phyllis Sheffer.

Treasury Staff

Keeping accurate records of all High School organization funds is the aim of the Treasury Staff.

In addition to a faculty auditor, the staff is composed of three student assistants. Being appointed to the Treasury Staff is an opportunity for students of bookkeeping to apply ideas gained in that study.

During the past year, one additional organization fund has been given us for accountability and the increasing amount of money handled is surprising. These facts bear witness to the merits of this Staff.

—E. H. Rayl.

The High School Band

The Danville High School Band which was organized three years ago, has advanced more rapidly this year than any year of its existence. Under the new director, Mr. McKinney, the boys have really learned, not as a group alone, but individually, many preparing themselves better for ensemble playing by private lessons. Of the many times the band has turned out, not once have they come without pep. As for pep, no organization in school can equal the band. As for playing ability, that of the Danville High School Band ranks high among high schools in the state.

We appreciate very much the work of the band this year, we appreciate the work of the directors and we have great expectations and high hopes that soon we will have the very best High School Band in the State.

The High School Orchestra

At the beginning of the year, our music professor organized an orchestra. Rehearsals were held each Tuesday and Thursday morning at 7:30. The orchestra took part in several programs in the assembly, receiving much applause at the completion of each number. Many were the times the leader had received compliments upon the organization and upon individual members.

As the semester wore on and times became crowded to overflowing with engagements for various individuals, interest slackened and it became a drudgery for some to attend rehearsals. Time approached for the band concert and all of the leader's time was taken in the training of the band. As a result of shortage in time the orchestra suspended rehearsals until later in the year.

We wish to thank all those who so devoutly gave of their time to make the orchestra the success it has become.

Affirmative Debating Team

In its annual dual debate Urbana and Danville argued the question, "Resolved; that the immigration of unskilled labor into the U. S. be prohibited for a period of ten years." Herman McCray, with an interesting presentation of the industrial advantage from such a policy, opened the argument. His speaking was characterized by sincerity and vigor which effectively won the attention and support of the audience. Leon Friedman, as second speaker, analyzed the social problem arising from our present influx of Southern Europeans and conclusively established his contention in such a way that the negative left it untouched. His earnestness and enthusiasm further strengthened the affirmative case. Leroy Linne, in the capacity of third speaker, demonstrated decided ability in the political phase of the argument. His material was well organized and his splendid delivery of it was very convincing. The rebuttals clinched the case. The unanimous decision of 3-0 represents the fruits of their work, practice, and interest.

—Ruth Sandeson.

Negative Debating Team

Intelligent aggressiveness characterized the negative debate team which D. H. S. this year sent to Urbana. When a suggestion was given them by their coach, they were never satisfied until they had carried it out in every detail. Moreover, on their own initiative, they were constantly in search of new ideas and new material for their case, a merit which added greatly to their possibilities. Carl Schroeder, whose ease on the platform and smoothness of delivery, was always in evidence an invaluable member of the negative trio. Carl will be with us again next year and should be a part of the nucleus around which we can build next year's teams. John Connelly and Abe Simon were two fighting seniors. John's greatest strength was in his concluding rebuttal as third speaker, when he practically removed doubt about what the decision would be. Abe Simon, who was the only man of previous debating experience from either of the teams, spoke with all the finish which an experienced speaker should display. The result was Danville 3, Urbana 0.

Wranglers

With the election of officers in October, the Wranglers Club continued its twelfth year with zest. The work was taken up where last year's club left off. Regular meetings were held, an assembly program given, and active support of all literary activities has characterized the year's work. The most important social function was the Wrangler's annual banquet. Until last year it has been held on the night of the debate. Finding this new plan desirable, the banquet was given a few weeks later in order that all the debaters, as well as ex-Wranglers, could be present. The attendance and spirit was all that could be desired.

Wranglers has always endeavored to aid the school and we are proud to say that every member of the debating teams are members of the Wranglers club. Our representatives in oratory, declamation, and extemporary speaking are usually Wranglers. The training received by participation in the activities of the club is invaluable. Here's to the success of the Wranglers in the past and the hoped for success in the future!

—Leroy Linne

The Maroon and White Staff

Previous to this year, the monthly publication of Danville High School was edited by the same staff throughout the year. This year, since it was desired to have more students participate in this line of activity and thus increase the literary resources of the school, it was decided to have a new editorial staff for each issue. In order to avoid complications, however, the business department was to be the same throughout the year. Each issue was to be edited by several English classes, the teachers acting as faculty advisers. On the whole, the plan has been successful and the efforts of the various staffs deserve commendation for their work during the year.

Being a new plan of course some faults became evident that were not at first apparent but the plan also contains many laudable features.

More students participated in the work and gained the experience in that line of activity. The quality of the material in the publication was increased because of the wider talent employed. Whether the plan will be a permanent success, is yet to be decided.

The Maroon and White Staff wishes to thank those people who gave of their time and energy to secure advertising for the "Maroon and White."

The Medley Staff

The "Medley" Staff this year have endeavored to carry into execution two ideas, namely: to make this book interesting and valuable to the students now and at the same time make it a source of delight and happiness to these same students many years later. The students themselves will be judges as to the success of this undertaking.

The Perfect Guest

She answered, by return of post,
The invitation of her host;
She caught the train she said she would,
And changed at junctions as she should;
She brought a small and lightish box,
And keys belonging to the locks.
Food, rare and rich, she did not beg,
But ate the boiled or scrambled egg;
When offered lukewarm tea she drank it,
And did not crave an extra blanket,
Nor extra pillows for her head;
She seemed to like the spare room bed.
She brought a small and lightish box,
And always went to bed at 10.
She left no little things behind,
But stories new and gossip kind.

—From The Spectator.

Trying Automobile Stuff, Eh?

Last week, the spotted pony owned by Jailer Cooper which has been throwing the boys so easily, undertook to throw a freight train, and—well, you can guess the result.

Fool Questions

D. F. J. asks: "Haven't conductors ever been arrested for punching tickets?"

"No, only for knocking down fares."

Huh!

"Pa, did you know that only one man out of every 203 is over six feet?" asked Clarence.

"Well, what of it??" snapped his dad.

"Nothing, only I was just going to ask you even though a man was over six feet if he still wasn't only over two feet," replied Clarence as he disappeared through the door.

"Be frank now. Tell me when you want me to go."

"Let's not discuss the past."

"Remember, Jack, I always love like this," she sighed as she nestled a little closer to him.

"Yes, yes," murmured he absently. "So I've heard, so I've heard."

Remember When?

Miss Payne went to Danville High.

A suit of clothes was twelve dollars.

Everybody went home at noon for dinner.

We had some real pep.

Doctors charged a dollar a visit.

There weren't any telephones.

We didn't have to take a book home.

Abe Simons wore knee pants.

The stairs of D. H. S. were strong and stout until Ray Walton came to school.

John Funk was a green Freshman.

Thursday morning programs were never missed.

There was an Athedarian Society.

Mr. Roggy—"So your father is ill. I hope it is nothing contagious."

Harold Wilson—"So do I. The doctors say he is suffering from overwork."

Mr. Roggy—"Don, what do you expect to be when you get out of school?"

Don Blankenburg—"An old man."

An old "yokel" saw a motor car for the first time in his life. It came dashing up the main street, and disappeared in a cloud of dust. "Well," said the yokel, "the horses must ha' been goin' a good speed when they got loose from the carriage."

"They say people with opposite characteristics make the happiest marriages."

"Yes; that's why I am looking for a girl with money."

Horace Newman—"Do you know why we call our language the Mother tongue?"

Wayne McCarthy—"Because Father never gets a chance to use it."

Doctor—"You seem to cough more easily this morning."

John Somers—"I ought to. I practiced all night."

Freshman—"When is a young lady not a lady?"

Senior—"Usually!"

An Honest Confession is Good for the Soul

I don't want no education,
I ain't got no application,
I can't do no multiplication,
There ain't no chance of graduation,
Nothing ahead but aggravation,
Misery and prevarication,
So hang it, I am going to quit!

Synthesis of the Word Flunk

Fierce lessons,
Late hours,
Unexpected callers,
Nothing prepared,
Knocked standing.

Our Policy

We laugh at all the teacher's jokes,
No matter what they be,
We never laugh because they're witty,
But because it's policy.

Reva Osborne was out in a rain and her hair rusted!

Pauline Cummins: Gee! I swallowed a rubber. I wonder if I'll be stretchy tomorrow?

Mr. Stephens—"Is this a force or pressure pump?"

Charles Handley—"It's a bicycle pump."

Herbert McConnell—"Did you ever hear the story of a cliff?"

Ralph Cundiff—"No."

H. M.—"It's a bluff."

"Say, Pa."

"Well, my son."

"I took a walk through the cemetery today and read the inscriptions on the tombstones."

"Well, what about it?"

"Where are all the wicked people buried?"

First Wise Bird—"Say, you're so dumb, you think that Sing Sing is a lullaby!"

Second Wise One—"G'wan, I'll bet you think the Mexican border pays rent."

Personals

Will trade some of my famous paint for a stick of gum.—Maude Crawford.

Will give a pair of shoes, size 12 for a collar, size 12½.—Ed Acheson.

Bill Marshall has purchased an overcoat so he won't have to wear his brother's.

Wanted—Some paper to supply my seatmate.—Don Sink.

Wanted—Someone to teach Emmet Newman how to dance, girls preferred.

Will someone please tell Leroy Linne how to solve life's greatest problem.

Editor's Note—What the ? ! ! !*

Great Men in School

John Funk says he is going to take splinters out of wood alcohol.

You don't get a ringside seat at a jeweler's.

Teacher—"Ralph, name the seasons."

R. Walton—"Salt, pepper, mustard and vinegar."

"Do circumstances alter cases?"

"Yes, Milwaukee isn't famous any more."

How To Control Women By Electricity

When a woman is sulky and will not speak—starter.

If she is dull and moody—exciter.

If she gets too excited—controller.

If she talks too long—interrupter.

If her way of thinking is not yours—converter.

If she is willing to come half way—meter.

If she will come all the way—receiver.

If she wants to go further—conductor.

If she would go still further—dispatcher.

If she is unfaithful—lever.

If she proves your fears are wrong—compensator.

If she goes up in the air—condenser.

If she gets angry and spoils her good looks—transformer.

If she wants chocolates—feeder.

"We Wonder"

There is a man who never drinks,
Nor smokes, nor chews, nor swears;
There is a man who loseth not
His temper when in snares.
There is a man who placid is,
When routed out of bed,
Such man there is, dear reader,
But that said man is dead!

There is a girl who will not use
Rouge, powder, or hair dye;
There is a girl who will not cast
'Pon man a vampish eye.
There is a girl who will not love
Or on your shoulder lay her head,
Such girl there lives, dear reader,
But that girl goes unwed!

Rufus Scoles—"Danville is getting worse than Zion City."

"Bob" Gibbons—"How's that?"

Rufus Scoles—"Everywhere you see 'Keep to the Right'."

Urich Murray—"How long did you say a human being could live with the brains removed?"

Miss Winger—"How old are you, Urich?"

Mr. Roggy—"What's a statute?"

Inez Alfieri—"I don't exactly know but there's one at the head of the Gilbert Street Bridge."

Mr. Barton—"Can't you read? What comes after cheese, stupid?"

Ed. Rearick—"A mouse, of course."

Hostess—"Won't you take a chair?"

Guest—"Thank you, we're just furnishing our house and every little piece helps."

Adam stood and watched his wife
Fall from the apple tree,
"Ah ha! at last I've found you out!
Eaves dropping," muttered he.

Mr. Stephens—"I want to hear silence."

If Old King Tut were only here,
He'd send us his clothes the whole long year,
Now you can be as wise as he,
And send your wardrobe all to me.

Hickory, Dickory Dock,
The mouse ran up the clock,
But hearing a scream
He slid down a seam
For the clock was designed on a sock.

Oh, darling, I have sung your charms
The ripple in your tawny hair,
I like the muscle in your arms,
Your tilted nose that takes the air;
Your voice is law, I like your laughter,
I revel even in your tears;
I search your features fore and after
But I have never seen your ears!

Abe Simon—"When I find something I don't know, I go to the library and look it up."

Glen Smith—"Gee, don't they get tired of seeing you there?"

Teacher—"What is the greatest water power known to man?"

Voice in back—"Woman's tears."

1.—"I love you."

2.—"Oh! This is so sudden."

1.—"Would you like me to ask your mother first?"

2.—"No, mother is a widow and I want you myself."

Truth is naked but the modern styles keep her from being distinctive.

"Where's the cashier, gone for a rest?"

"No, to avoid it."

"My good man, you had better take the trolley car home."

"Sh'no use! My wife wouldn't let me—hic—keep it in the house."

"Doggone this here anti-trust movement," growled the soph, as he glared at the chaperone.

Ten Comfort Commandments

I.

Upon thy bed dost thou depend for bodily welfare. Take heed, therefore, that it be a good bed.

II.

One-third of thine allotted span upon this earth dost thou spend in repose. Get from it what comfort thou canst.

Toss not away sleepless nights upon a poor mattress, when an investment of one-half of one copper cent per night additional will obtain thee a good one.

IV.

When considering the cost of the mattress thou art about to purchase, divide that cost by the number of nights the mattress will rest thee, and observe the economy of a good mattress.

V.

Consider thy mattress as the fountain of energy, and respect it accordingly.

VI.

Remember always that the increased cost of a good mattress is returned to thee many-fold in increased vitality.

VII.

Take heed to thy health, which dependeth upon good sleep. Take heed to thy sleep, which dependeth upon a good mattress.

VIII.

Deem it not extravagant to expend for a mattress which will serve thee twenty years an amount equal to the cost of a suit of raiment which will serve thee two years.

IX.

Think not too deeply upon spending for ten years of good sleep an amount equal to one year of bum haircuts.

X.

Bear in mind always that an expensive bed equipped with a poor mattress is ever as a mound of broken concrete, while a good mattress maketh of the cheapest iron bed a couch fit for the Chief Executive.

Traffic Cop—"Say you, didn't you see me wave at you?"

Mirandy—"Yes, you fresh thing and if Henry were here he'd paste you one for it."

"Bridget, do I smell gas?"

"I can't tell sir, it's dark down here."

Customer—"I want a dress to put on around the house."

Clerk—"How large is your house, madam?"

"I'm simply wild about a yacht."

"How do you act on a motor boat?"

"I'd like to get off something sharp."

"Try sitting on a tack."

"Been livin' heah all yo' life, Sambo?"

"Naw suh, not yit."

We would like to pull that one about the mouse trap, but it's too snappy to tell.

"Let me give you a little word of advice, never kiss a girl on the forehead."

"Why?"

"You're liable as not to get a bang on the mouth."

"I'm afraid I'll never see you in heaven."

"Great guns, what have you been doing?"

"Mary, is that young man there yet?"

"No, father, but he's getting there."

"Just one more kiss before I leave."

"No, we haven't time, Father will be home in an hour."

Observations of Oldest Inhabitant

The old-fashioned farmer who never was able to raise the mortgage now has a son who never has any trouble raising the price of a new motor car.

You will meet plenty of people who consider their lie ability as one of their greatest assets.

Lack of fuel may have a tendency to make many of us polar explorers.

Not So Bad!

"I see you've got a new hoss, Zeph," the mail carrier in a small town said to one of the inhabitants who was brushing a chestnut mare.

"Ye-up," replied Zeph.

"Do you trade often?"

"Ye-up; Sat-day I swapped three times."

"You must be doing pretty well."

"Ye-up, pretty good; generally come out second best—that isn't doing very bad, is it?"—Youth's Companion.

It appears that, while the constitution follows the flag, the price of gasoline inclines to trot after the drooping temperature.

Just saying "Every day and in every way I am getting better and better" may cure lots of people, but we know it can't help congressmen.

A nation has it all over an individual because when it is pressed for payment of its debts it can call a conference.

You've got to hand it to Kemmy of the Fez. He certainly has made the allies do the Turkey trot.

Maybe She Wants to Change It To Good Morning, Judge

Dorothy Mabel Goodnight, of Dallas, Texas, is suing to change her name. If we were Mabel, instead of going to court, we would pick out some nice man with a nice name and let him change it for us.

James Gordon Bennett, founder of The New York Herald, had an impediment in his speech; in fact, he stuttered quite painfully. A gentleman who had known Mr. Bennett in Baltimore once called upon him in his editorial sanctum in The Herald Building. After some conversation, the gentleman remarked: "Why, Gordon, you're stuttering worse here than you did in Baltimore."

"I-I-I kn-kn-know it," Mr. Bennett replied. "N-N-New Y-Y-York is a b-b-bigger p-p-place."—Philadelphia Ledger.

In Literary Boston

Edward Bok said at a dinner party: "When I was a boy people visited New England to see Longfellow and Everson, Thoreau and Hawthorne. Today, however—"

Mr. Bok smiled: "A sight-seeing automobile," he went on, "was trundling through the streets of Boston. The man with the megaphone was about to put the instrument to his lips when a young woman in a very short skirt twitched his coat tail and said impatiently: 'Say, guide, let up on that heavy stuff. We've all heard a lot about the splendid Oliver Wendell Holmes of Boston. Can't you show us inside a few of them for a change?"

—Boston Globe.

"Beg pardon sir, but could you tell me if there is a man in this hotel with one eye named John Hardly?"

"Maybe I could help you out. Do you know the name of his other eye?"

"Papa, isn't an allegory something with a hidden meaning?"

"Yes, why do you ask?"

"Charles must speak in allegories then, because the other night he said to sister, 'Let's go for a stroll.' They went out, but they didn't stroll. I watched them."

He had just been to Philadelphia and was very much out of sorts. The food was no good, they had no decent hotels, everybody was slow, and the whole world was wrong.

"But you've got to admit that Philadelphia is a well laid out town!"

"It's been dead long enough."

Witness—"Yessah, I sho was."

Judge—"Then I take it you also saw the second shot fired immediately afterward."

Cause and Effect

The insurance adjuster who had been investigating the fire, turned to go.

"I came down here to find the cause of the fire and I have done so," he remarked.

"What caused it?" demanded the owner.

"It's a plain case of friction."

"What do-ya-mean—friction?"

"The fire was undoubtedly started by rubbing a three thousand dollar insurance policy on a two thousand dollar house."

John Funk—Why can a motorman take a vamp for his wife?"

Marvin Reed—"Because he can controller.

Bill Leverenz—"Why is a young lady like a violin?"

Bill Thompson—"Because she gets all strung up when her beau comes."

Wanted—A young man for glue factory. Must be democratic; not stuck up."

Broken New Year's Resolutions

Harold Wilson—"Won't you look up at me?"

Marsonne Dudley—"No, if I do you'll kiss me again."

Harold Wilson—"I promise you I won't."

Marsonne Dudley—"Then what's the use?"

First Woman—"My husband is getting awful courteous lately."

Second Woman—"How's that?"

First Woman—"Well he gave up his seat to an Irishman on the street car yesterday."

Second Woman—"How do you know?"

First Woman—"In his sleep, last night, he said, 'I'll stand, pat'."

Lena Lenover—"Run along, I am saving my kisses."

Homer Wonderlin—"Aw, let me add to your collection."

Save and you save alone—spend and the whole world will help you spend it.

Ad in Paper

Party seen picking up white pointer dog on Gilbert Street, has lemon and white ears, one lemon eye, and lemon spot on tail, please return to same place and receive reward.

Co-operation

The mosquitoes are terrible. They have formed a trust with the lightning bugs and work in pairs. The lightning bug lights up the place and the mosquito does the excavation.

One to Practice On

Young Wife—"The trained nurse is going to teach me how to give the baby a bath."

Young Husband—"Don't you think we had better send out and hire another baby?"

Too Late

Country Policeman (on guard at scene of murder)—"I tell 'e, ye can't come in 'ere."

Ted Freeland—"I'm a journalist; I've come to do the murder."

Constable—"You're too late. The murder's been done."

Manuel, a negro, with a clean record was arraigned before a justice of the peace for assault and battery.

"Why did you beat this man up, Manuel?" asked the judge.

"He called me sumpthin', jedge."

"What did he call you?"

"A rhinoceros, suh,—a rhinoceros!"

"When did this occur?"

"'Bout three years ago!"

"Why did you wait so long?"

"Jedge, I ain't seen a rhinoceros till this mawnin'."

Mrs. Hart—"You simply must stop mumbling in your sleep."

Mr. Hart—"Don't be so blamed curious, I absolutely refuse to talk out loud, so there!"

"Sits" Miller—"Say, Fat, do you know the story of the empty pocketbook?"

"Fat" Werner—"No."

S. M.—"There's nothing in it."

"Love," declared the professor, "furnishes the power that moves the world."

"Yes," replied the cynic, "and divorce is the wrench that often jams the works."

"Do you remember the fable of the hare and the tortoise?"

"I do, and it's all old stuff. A modern version would have the hare arrested for speeding."

Mrs. Winrow—"You ought to wear a belt 'stead o' suspenders next Sunday, Hiram, seein' as how we're goin' ter have guests from the county seat."

Mr. Winrow—"Anythin' to please you, old gal, but, gosh! how I hate them there formal affairs!"

Modern Art

"Here's where I prove an artist
Without a brush," he cried,
And drew a lovely maiden
Up closer to his side.

Barr—"Did you say he is a bosom friend?"

Carr—"More than that; he's a hip friend."

Teacher—"James, who was the greatest man in the world?"

James—"Mamma's first husband."

No Credit Extended

The world owes us a living
We hold this truth to be.
But ne'ertheless it always comes

"They're all broke," answered the brightest boy in the class.

Doubtful

It always pays to tell a maid
Her's is the first kiss you've assayed,
But in the kiss I'm not so sure
It pays to play the amateur.

Sam Reichman—"What did you have when I had four aces?"

Abe Simon—"Palpitation of the heart."

Helen Werner—"Does that novel, you just finished reading, have a happy ending?"

Gilbert Dickerson—"I don't know. The hero and heroine are married in the last chapter."

A Taking Girl

She took my hand in sheltered nooks,
She took my candy and my books,
She took that lustrous wrap of fur,
She took those gloves I bought for her.
She took my words of love and care,
She took my flowers, rich and rare,
She took my ring with tender smile,
She took my time for quite a while.
She took my kisses, made so shy—
(She took I must confess my eye)—
She took whatever I would buy,
And then she took another guy.

Demon Reformer—"Don't you know tobacco shortens lives?"

Smoker—"I've smoked for sixty-five years and I'm eighty years old now."

AS AN INVESTMENT

You never heard of the holder of one of our building association certificates discounting it to get the money. It is always worth one hundred per cent., everywhere, all the time.

This can not be said of any foreign, or out-of-town security you may buy.

You can make an investment in the Vermilion County Building Association at any time, in a large or small amount, where no dues are to be paid, or in a small amount requiring the payment of dues. No account is too small to be accepted. We encourage small accounts; they are the beginning of greater things.

First Laborer—"Are ya workin', Joe?"

Second Laborer—"Sure, I gotta dandy job fixin' the trolley tracks. I have to quit every minute or so to let the cars go by."

Mr. Stephens says that it's a wise man who carries an umbrella when it is not raining. (Any fool can carry one when it rains).

Mary has a little lamb,
It almost makes me cry
The way the jokesmiths keep this up
And won't let Mary die.

"And your friend really married his typist. How do they get along?"

"Oh, same as ever. When he dictates to her she takes him down."

Young Lady—"I'm worried about my complexion. Look at my face."

Doctor—"You'll have to diet."

Young Lady—"What color would you suggest?"

Mother—"Sometimes there are rude boys in Sunday school who giggle and smile at little girls, and sometimes the little girls smile back at them, but I hope my little girl doesn't behave like that."

Young Daughter—"No, indeed; I always put my tongue out at them."

P. Cummins—"Why do you call this course 'Piece de resistance'?"

Waiter—"Wait till you try it."

Curious

Mrs. Fox—"Don't ask so many questions, Katie. Curiosity once killed a cat."

Katie—"What did the cat want to know?"

A celebrated singer was in a motor accident one day. A newspaper, after recording the accident, added, "We are happy to state that he was able to appear the following evening in four pieces."

"Now I've had my revenge," said the shoe shop proprietor to his friend, as the customer left.

"Revenge, how so?"

"Well, the young lady who just went out is a telephone operator. I gave her the wrong number."

Herman McCray—"Who is that letter from?"

Sarah Cowan—"What do you want to know for?"

Herman McCray—"There you are! You are the most inquisitive person I've ever met."

You say that she has beat it,
When you mean that she has went,
A kid with frightened lamps you call,
"A pie eyed innocent."

Oh, girlies, can that rough neck stuff,
It's fierce without a doubt.
Take it from me, it's awful punk,
Say, kiddoes, cut it out.

Slang

Oh, sweet little girls of High School,
How shocked I am to hear,
The horrid slang of High School Girls
That each day greets my ear.

A kid you like is called a "peach,"
The other guy's a "mutt."
The wise one is a "humming bird,"
The stupid boob's a "nut."

"Beau" is what you call a knob,
A nifty lid's a "dream."
For a bum recitation you say you 'flunked,'
A funny stunt's a "scream."

You call a dude a "piece of cheese,"
A grouch you call a "crab."
For gathering cash you always say,
"A bunch of dough I'll grab."

Walter Pentecost—"What would you do if I should kiss you on the forehead?"

Helen Endsley—"I would call you down a bit."

Don—"It's a hearse."

Mr. Blaisdell—"How is it I always find you kissing my daughter? How is it?"

Dave Simon—"Great, sir. Great!"

Mr. Stephens—"How many people work in your office?"

Mr. Rayl—"Oh, about one-fourth of them."

Stranger—"Beg pardon, but could you tell me where I could find someone in authority?"

"Ted" Hudson—"Sure, what can I do for you?"

Joe Morrissey—"Up in your studies?"

John Funk—"Yeah, all the way up."

Safety First

"Admission two eggs," was the price recently charged for a concert given by some amateur musicians. The idea was to corner all the ammunition.

Mr. Swaim—"What is your favorite hymn, Sarah?"

Sarah—"The one you kicked out last night."

Herman Meithe—"Your reporter called me the Mercury of the school."

Editor—"Well, that's quite a compliment to your running."

Herman Meithe—"I looked him up and he was the god of liars."

Customer—"But how can you tell the imitation pearls from the real ones?"

Fred Turnell—"Ah, lady, you don't tell. You keep it to yourself."

Fred Donner—"Father, there's a bug on the ceiling."

Father (busy at work)—"Well, step on it and leave me alone."

Mary

Mary had a little mule,
One day it followed her to school.

It fell to earth, I know not where.
But hard and cold were the looks of those
In whose vicinity I snoze.

Roy Simpson, negro laborer, was putting in his first day with a construction gang whose foreman was known for getting the maximum amount of work out of his men. Simpson was helping in the task of moving the right-of-way, and all day long he carried heavy timbers and ties until at the close of the day he was completely tired out. Before he left he approached the boss and said:

"Mistoh, you all sure you got me down on the payroll?"

The foreman looked over the list of names he held. "Yes," he said finally, "here you are—Simpson—Roy Simpson. That's right isn't it?"

"Yaas suh, boss," said the negro, "daas right. I thought maybe you had me down as Sampson."

The Search of the Sheik

Without a squeak,
A gallant Sheik,
In sunshine and in shadow,
Had journeyed long,
Singing a song,
In search of his Queen of Sheba.

But he grew tired,
This Sheik bemired,
And o'er his heart a shadow
Fell as he found
No palace ground
Where was his Queen of Sheba.

And as his band
Plowed through the sand,
He met a ghostly shadow,
"Ghost," said he,
"Where can she be,
My beloved Queen of Sheba?"

"Over the River
Of the Nile,
Across the Great Sahara:
Ride, boldly, ride,"
The Ghost replied,
"If you seek your Queen of Sheba!"

—Zuuge Stapha M'Ceauxie.

How we have mocked you, dear old pal of ours,
As often through your time-worn halls we've run,
And stepped heavily on your creaky stairs,
Hoping our days with you would soon be done!
But now, old pal, as the time draws nearer,
And to you we say farewell—forever,
The tears come to our eyes—we cannot speak.
Oh! how hard it is old paths to sever.

What Matters

It isn't the dress nor the hat that you wear;
It isn't the kind of a shoe;
It isn't the wealth that you boast of today,
Nor whether you're Gentile or Jew;
It isn't the "line" that you "fling out" to us,
Nor your home—that matters to man:
It's the kind of a soul that is hidden in you
Underneath the white and the tan.

—J. Marie Crawford.

It's not what you'd do with a million,
If riches should e'er be your lot,
But what you are doing at present
With the dollar and a quarter you've got.

First a Freshman, faintly facing foe and faculty,
Acting acquiescent, and acquiring Algebry;
Ready as a rigid Sophomore to rebuff his rival's rights,
Earning earnest education, estimating mental heights;
Wary as a watchful Junior—waiting, weilding, watchful, wise,
Ever exercising easy egotism in disguise;
Last a luminary Senior, living loyal, lofty life,
Loosed by lurching lottery to leave the lawful strife.
Add them all together, and you'll find the sum to be
The final farewell of the Class of Nineteen Twenty-Three.

—Virgil Pugh.

BASKETBALL IN THE CLASS OF '23

Very few Senior classes in very few high schools can boast a basketball team like the one which represented this year's Senior class. Aside from being class champions they acquired the scalps of several prominent independent teams and brought fame to their school and also to themselves by winning the Amateur Independent Tournament held at the Y. M. C. A., February 15, 16 and 17.

But to go back, they defeated the Juniors, Sophomores and Freshmen during the Inter-Class tournament and were rewarded by being presented with a handsome shield which they in turn presented to the school as an incentive to other Senior classes.

Then they had to have some practice in order that they might prepare for the Amateur Independent Tournament, so they challenged the Catlin Independents, the Potomac Independents, and the local Y. M. C. A. teams in the order named and defeated each of them.

They were now fitted for the Tournament. They drew the Alvin All-Stars for the first game Friday afternoon and defeated them easily 34-16. They played the Y. M. C. A. Saturday morning and defeated them 27-25. This victory placed them in the semi-finals. They met the Sidell Bouncers in the afternoon and defeated them handily 33-12. They were now ready for the final and championship game at 8:15 with Catlin. This game was fast and furious and threatened to slow up the boys who had already played two games that day. Catlin had only played one and were comparatively fresh, so to speak. But the undaunted fighting spirit acquired through 4 years of varsity competition was not to be gained for naught and they came out the victors 23-19. Let it be known that without the assistance of Coach Glen Thompson the results might have been disastrous, for it was through his efforts that the boys were spurred on to overcome that tirelessness which threatened the score several times in the final game. As one of the local newspapers said, "Danville High School has one championship Basketball team but it is composed of ineligibles who have finished their scholastic careers and are graduating in June." You are not astonished at their success when you learn that such players as "Bill" Christy, Theodore Hudson, John Funk, John Raushenberger, "Mel" Hall, Sam Murray, Walter Pentecost and "Les" Son comprised the quintet.

ONE EXCITING NIGHT

There are, in this large family of ours, many students who daily pass through the arched entrances at 8 A. M., answer roll call for seven periods and then pass out through those same archways at 4 P. M. This group claims most of us, yet there are some among us who have been known to answer roll call for the eighth period. This period, as far as can be ascertained, begins sometime around midnight and ends at the pupils' desire. The subject taught is "Modern Redecorating," and from some exhibitions of the work accomplished, we are forced to admit that the pupils have the subject "well at hand." However, the number to enter under those archways to answer roll call for the eighth period, in the last few years, has been limited and the writer of this article feels very fortunate in having overheard the following anecdote pertaining to an eighth period class:

It was in deep winter of the year A. D. 1920. The sky was clear and the Mother Moon and all the little Moons were overtaxing themselves in order to see that man protruded undisturbed. The wind, however, was not aware of man's desires, and being on a rampage, picked up the fallen snow and piled it in dunes. It was a night of restlessness without, yet very few people were out stirring. The arc light on the corner of Pine and Seminary streets, swinging to and fro, let out a mournful creak that reminded one of anything but gaiety. Aside from the wind and the creaking arc light could be heard the ringing of a bell on a distant locomotive and the howl of far-off watch dogs which were too cold to attempt to sleep. But if you have a conception of the place and conditions, I shall proceed with my story.

It was the hour for ghosts to walk, but what ghost would leave the warmth of his tomb to brave the winter's chill this night? However, three human beings who had not as yet entered their abodes for the evening, but who were at this moment in the act of proceeding homeward, came walking westward on Seminary street. An occasional outburst of laughter could be heard between short low sentences that were evidently humorous with now and then a short whistling refrain of a popular dance number. As they neared the High School their voices quieted and they seemed less jovial. They held a conference on the school yard and then proceeded to the Gilbert street entrance, opened an already unlocked window and entered the building seemingly as carefree as a bachelor entering his apartments at 3 A. M. Once inside they lowered the window and latched it from the inside. By means of a small pocket flashlight they found their way to the lower hall, climbed the creaking stairs, that added to the already deathlike atmosphere, and entered the Assembly Room. They ransacked every desk, taking the necessary precautions against being detected. This task alone required about two hours of fast working, and the next hour was spent in cutting the wires which announce the beginning and close of each period, placing Limburger cheese behind most of the radiators, painting the blackboards and the general destruction of property. 4 A. M. found them near the end of their task and they were preparing to leave. The wind was still howling without, the creaking of the arclight could be heard and daybreak was not far off. As they started to descend the north stairs they heard a sharp wheeze as if someone afflicted with the asthma. One remarked that it was the wind, another that it was the mice at play, the third, being of a more frightful nature, was not so sure but tried to convince himself for the sake of his peace of mind that it was one of the two conditions mentioned by his associates. However, by this time the wheeze repeated itself and it sounded even closer than before. The noise came from the hall which is just back of the assembly platform and which connects the north and south entrances to the assembly room. Two frightened to move and inwardly desiring to free themselves from this frightened state, they backed up in front of the door which leads to Mr. Baer's office and awaited developments. All through the building was dark and quiet with the exception of this periodical wheeze which came closer and closer. Although they possessed a flashlight they had no occasion to use it for what was before them was clearly discernible. It was nothing else than a real live ghost, at least as live as ghosts can be. This wheeze that came forth at regular intervals continued as it walked to the stairs, fingered the railing and descended to the first landing and walked back and forth, peeping out of the windows as if looking for a means of escape. The boys watched this with open eyes and faulty hearts, powerless and speechless. After ten paces back and forth in front of the windows the white spectre ascended the stairs, grasping the railing as does a blind person and slowly re-entered the narrow hall from whence it came.

Seeing that the ghost was not aware of their presence and feeling that it was harmless, they tip-toed after it through the narrow hall. It mounted the stairs which lead up to the attic and disappeared, but the boys went no further. On the way home they discussed the event and one boy related a story told to him by his father. The substance of which is this:

One time there was a thief who had been wounded by the police and who sought this building as a place of refuge, knowing it to be a safe hiding place for the night and at least until he had shaken the pursuing police. It happened that his injuries were more serious than he had ascertained and rather than give himself up to the police he nursed his own wounds until too weak from the loss of blood and then died. His body was found and identified as the thief who had escaped the police, yet his Spirit had never left the building and nightly he takes this stroll from the attic to seek a means of escape. The windows are always bolted before the janitor leaves the building and the boys were able to get in only because one of them hid in the building and unlocked the window after the janitor had made his round of inspection.

It seems that this ghost is due to be a prisoner until we occupy the new building and the one we now adorn is torn down.

But I have failed to mention the result which this event had upon the other nine hundred students in school that semester. The result was a holiday for them and the faculty busied themselves in clearing away the debris so that school might "take up" promptly at 8:40 A. M. on the following day—which it did.

Mrs. Wakeley—"John, there's a strange man in the room!"

John Wakeley—"What do you want?"

Burglar—"Money."

John W.—"What security do you offer?"

Late in life, success expands the waistband. Early in life, it expands the hatband.

Mrs. Johnsing—"Ah thought you-all said you was gwine name yo' baby 'Victrola' but ah see you've done changed yo' mind."

Mrs. Moses—"Uh-huh, ah 'spected it would be a girl and ah decided to name her 'Victrola' but it was a boy and so ah named him 'Radio'."

She—"I don't care for men. In fact I've said 'no' to several of them."

He—"What were they selling?"

"Bill" Thompson—"So she winked at you, eh? What followed?"

Rufus Scoles—"Why, I did, of course."

Bill Wherry says a man doesn't have to study botany to be able to tell a bud from a wall flower.

Farewell Danville High

Farewell old D. H. S.
We're leaving you at last,
Altho' we've had four years of toil
Our labors now are past.
Hasty words we now regret
And realize we owe a debt
To you—And those who aided us
In learning to become adept.
Farewell dear Alma Mater.
Altho' out in the world we'll be
A thought of happy high school days
And you—will be a pleasant memory.

"Bob"—"My brother John has such a musical voice."

Margaret—"How's that?"

"Bob"—"Oh, it sounds so much like the strains of a lyre."

"Chuck" Oetzel—"You sure can dance?"

Gladys Crawford—"Oh yes. I love to."

C. O.—"Then we'll love."

Curt Taylor (entering store)—"Were you advertising for an ass?"

Manager—"Why yes, step right in."

He (looking at picture)—"Nice looking girl—nice frame."

She—"Still talking about the girl?"

Frances Dillon—"He was the goal of my ambitions, but—"

F. D.—"Father kicked the goal."

Torius—"Know thee Cassius, how the girls are at D. H. S.?"

Cassius—"No Torius."

"Mel" Hall—"God must have loved the Flunkers, He made so many of them."

F. Stellner—"I heard of a man that lives on onions alone."

J. Williams—"He ought to live alone if he lives on onions."

Alice Tarpening—"Bunny says my mouth is the prettiest she has ever seen."

Emmet Newman—"Indeed, is that true? Well, I'll put mine up against it any time."

He—"Have you the time?"

She—Time for what. For you, yes!"

Beauty is worse than wine; it intoxicates the holder and the beholder.

Jim Arnholt—"I'm doing my best to get ahead."

Miss Fuller—"Goodness knows you need one."

There was an ad in the paper a few days ago which read: "Do fish smell?"

We'll say they do!

Mr. Neevel—"But you guaranteed this watch to last me a life-time."

Clerk—"Certainly; but you looked pretty sick the day you bought it."

"Dot"—"Mildred's beau died of poisoning."

Blot—"Then she can't say her Chem course was a failure."

Maude—"May is going to be married soon."

Marie—"Is she buying her trousseau?"

Maude—"No, she's learning how to use a revolver."

Mr. Roggy tries to make the girls believe he's a woman hater, but girls, Mr. Roggy is only a mortal as you and I. Next time you see him ask him about the young lady in Michigan.

Why does Mr. Neevel go to Chicago so often?"

Wanted—Will pay $5 cash, 10 bags of potatoes, a side car used 4 years, 1 single harness and a student lamp for a Ford car in first class condition.—Eugene Beaver.

Bob Reed—"Tom ate something that poisoned him."

Raymond Scott—"Croquette?"

B. R.—"Not yet; but he's very ill."

Frances Brown (at age of 9)—"Daddy, a naughty man broke my sled with his automobile."

Her Dad—"Where is he?"

F. B.—"Oh, you'll easily catch him. Two men just carried him into a drug store."

Mr. Hart—"I have eaten better steaks than this one."

Waiter—"Not here, sir. Not here."

"Bright Eyes" Bredehoft—"Can you drive with one hand?"

Horace Newman—"No, but I can stop."

Little Robert Hickman was walking down the street with his mother when he saw a blind man playing a harp.

"Little Bob"—"Oh! Look, mother; is that a fallen angel?"

Miss Barton—"The human anatomy is a wonderful bit of mechanism."

Herbert McConnell—"Yes, pat a man on the back and you'll make his head swell."

Caddy—"I see you as champion of England if you keep on like that."

Miss Grassley—"After I lost my club for the third time?"

Caddy—"Yes; at throwing the 'ammer."

Elizabeth Kelly—"Did you say your father was fond of those clinging gowns."

Elizabeth Funk—"Yes; he likes one to cling to me about three years."

Student—"Forty ducks in a row."

Fred Hartz—"You ought to be good in geometry."

"Chuck" Ross—"Why?"

Fred Hartz—"Because your head is both plain and solid."

Mrs. Wait (to Florence on porch with Louis)—"Come in and get something around you. You'll catch cold."

Florence—"Oh, I have something around me."

A fellow never knows what to do when two girls kiss.

He kissed her on the cheek;
  It seemed a harmless frolic,
He's been laid up a week—
  They say—with painter's colic.

He called her lily, violet, rose,
  And all the flowers of spring.
She said, "I can't be all of those.
  You lilac everything."

"Well, I'll be damned," said the babbling brook, as the fat lady fell off the bridge into the water.

She drove him out in the country four or five miles, and then stopped the car. "Should we go a little farther," he said.

"No," she responded, "I've gone far enough; now it's up to you."

For Good Photographs

We are photographers for this year's Medley, and the engravers say we have made the best lot of photographs they have received this year. This is quite a compliment, coming as it does from one of the largest engraving houses in the United States.

We are also doing the photography for about twelve other schools in this vicinity, this year, all of which have been well pleased with our work. We can please you as we have others. It will pay you to see us before having your photographs made.
